RE: 5th World Congress/SAW Project Collaboration

Dear Ms. Truschel:

Following a number of meetings with you, and recognizing a shared vision in the knowledge management of past and future World Congresses on Probation (and Parole), the Parole Board of Canada would like to formally support in-kind, the work that the Supervision Around the World (SAW) Project is doing to provide a consistent platform and Internet site for past and future World Congresses.

This initiative is important for a number of reasons. It will be beneficial to future hosting organizations as it will translate into increased efficiencies and effectiveness with the financial planning and organizing of this event. It will also benefit people from around the globe who are working in probation, parole and community corrections in terms of accessing presentations and information about past and future World Congresses. Finally, the site will act as an important repository of historical and current research and good practices concerning all aspects of probation, parole and community corrections.

I look forward to supporting you with specific in-kind measures, as mutually agreed upon, so that the SAW Project can move forward with this initiative.

Yours sincerely,

Jennifer Oades
